LUCKY CHRISTMAS STAR—The Christmas tree in the lobby of the Bethel Savings Bank is dedicated to Americans serving in Operation Desert Shield, but it also has a star for Brent Swan, who had been held hostage by rebels in Angola. His family learned only yesterday that he has been released.

Opinions A yellow-ribbon Christmas

The most timely of decorations this holiday season is not holly, or an evergreen wreath or gaily colored bulbs-but, instead, the simple yellow ribbons that bedeck trees in homes all across the country. The hostages held by Iraq are now free, but thousands of other young Americans are still in the Near East, themselves hostages to the fortunes of war. And, like the man whose birth we celebrate at Christmas, the; have shown their willingness to make the ultimate, mortal sacrifice for the good of others. Their motives are no doubt various, the cause confused—and certainly a far cry from Christ's austere vision.

But they, too, are following through on a commitment to others; they are there; and their lives are, at this moment, at deadly peril. As we gather for our own celebrations, we think of them, thank them, -MRD and we pray for their swift and safe return.

From all of us here at The Citizen, to all of our readers everywherewhether at home in this lovely part of the world, or scattered across the country and around the globe, we wish you all the joys of the season. And if the coming year seems unlikely to bring material prosperity, then let us take it as an opportunity to celebrate the things that really matter, our families, our friends and the fullness of this beautiful world.

DON'T LET OUR CHILDREN DIE FOR THE MUDDLE EAST

To the Editor: Please don't let us fire the first shot. Our hostages are home safe and sound. Let the counties of the Middle East settle their own differences. It is so complex we can never truly understand it. I spent three weeks in Israel last summer listening to lectures by Jews and Arabs explaining the situation to us and came home realizing it truly is the Muddled East. I'll gladly sacrifice my creature comforts and pay higher oil and gas prices if it means thousands upon thousands of our young peoples' lives are saved.

Let's speak up before it's too late.

MORE LOCK MILLS NEWS

To the Editor known as "Outside Inn"). How do you account for such an important omission? More importantly, what steps are being taken to improve your coverage of Locke Mills.

Robert E. Davis Wilmington, Del.

The amount of news from any neighborhood seems to have a natural ebb and flow to it, and our Locke Mills correspondent, Lorraine Mills, says she would be delighted to have more people call her with local goings on. As to the Nov. 29 fire, our policy at The Citizen has been and continues to be that we will focus our limited reporting resources as far as possible on activities and issues of community-wide interest, which means that we devote little space to matters such as automobile accidents, civil disputes and fires—especially, as in this case, at an unoccupied summer camp. The camp in question was, however, one of the older buildings on the lake. If Mr. it, we would be delighted to have him share them with our other readers.

With the resolution of the hostage issue in the Middle East, we will quickly find that other issues can also be resolved by diplomatic means available to us: the nuclear/poison gas issue, the supply of oil to the industrial world at a reasonable price, the recognition of a Palestinian State as established by the United Nations and the internationalization of the City of Jerusalem as a City of Peace (both provided for by earlier United Nations action which the United States has been reluctant to support). Moses Mason House Limited supplies of the 1991 Bethel Historical Society calendar are still available at the Society's gift shop and at Prim's Pharmacy.

This year's calendar features a 1908 photograph of the Cole Block on the cover, to commemorate the fact that this Bethel landmark is 100 years old in 1991. January features a 1920 view of upper Main Street, Bethel; February, lower Main Street; March, Bethel Rebekahs, 1948; April, Methodist Parsonage, Mason Street, 1923; May, Winnie Bartlett Homestead, East Bethel, 1950s (now gone); June, Gould Academy Class of 1911; July, Erma Thurston Young and the Bethel Bluebird Orchestra, 1930s; August, Head of Main Street, 1920; September, looking down Main Street, 1920s; October, members of the West Parish Congregational Church, 1940s; November, Flat Road, West Bethel, 1920s; December, logging in the Bethel area, ca. 1900.

On Wednesday, Dec. 12, student of the fifth grade social studies classes at Crescent Park visited the Dr. Moses Mason House for another monthly activity in the continuing series which began in September. This visit involved tours of the museum conducted by Judy Haskell and Persis Post. Students worked in groups through a continuing series of activities in the meeting room. Jean Bass and Mabel Kennett worked with students on a quilting project; Audrey Brooks conducted a stencilling session; Robin Fraser, basketmaking; Lorrie Hoeh and Stan Howe, plaque making. All of these crafts were done many years ago and one of the purposes of these activities was to provide students with the feel of things long ago. To date students have had exnces with Bethel's architectural heritage (September), meeting houses and cemeteries (October), farming and logging (November). Other activities are scheduled each month through May, and are part of the varied educational programs sponsored by the Bethel Historical Society. Among the newest members of the Bethel Historical Society are Albert Abbott, Bethel and Robert Brown, Hanover. Contributions to the 1990 Endowment Campaign continue to arrive. Newest contributors this year include Willard and Sylvia Wight, Newry; Lucretia Evans, Bronx, N.Y., in memory of Moses Mason Robinson; Stuart Crocker, Bethel. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity.

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy, Parkinson's Disease: Several Therapies

Parkinson's disease is a neuroogical condition which was first described in 1917 by Dr. James Parkinson. This condition, which most often strikes people over the age of 60, results in uncontrollable tremors of the arms and legs, a shuffling gait, and tightening of certain muscles.

Parkinson's disease usually is not fatal, but it often causes the person affected to be more susceptible to other health problems Some persons with Parkinson's have difficulty standing or walking. Others may become depressed, experience swallowing problems. or experience speech problems. drooling, or constipation. Possible causes of Parkinson's disease include head trauma, infection, or exposure to toxic chemicals such as lead, mercury, or manganese. Generally, it is believed that Parkinson's symptoms are caused by low levels of dopamine and other transmitter chemicals in the brain.

The mainstay of Parkinson's disease is levodopa, a medicine that helps the brain manufacturer. its own dopamine. Bromocriptine and perdolide stimulate dopamine receptors in the brain. These medicines can be used in conjunction with levodopa. One of the newer medicines is selegiline, an enzyme inhibitor that causes a prolonged effect of the dopamine that is pres ent in the brain.

Agnes Gray School By MARTA CLEMENTS

Another busy week draws us closer to Christmas. However, over 100 parents and children attended the first Family Math night this past Tuesday. Mrs. Sharon LeBlond, the SAD #17 Elementary Math Coordinator, presented games and materials that could be used at home to teach math concepts and make math fun. All present were actively involved. The very first activity that parents and children tried together was to estimate the number of small square blocks that were in a sealed jar. At the end of the evening the winner was announced. Jessica Farrar of Grade Three had estimated 140. The exact amount was 144. Jessica and the third-graders will celebrate with an ice cream party, the prize for the closest estimate.

- Regular activities this week are: The kindergarten classes are learning the letter L and are making them with popcorn. They are practicing their Christmas songs for the concert, and they are making surprise Christmas presents for their parents.

The first-graders are working on the steam engine sound, ch, and the hooting owl sound of oo. They are also working on many Christmas activities. Mrs. Barbara Shead came in to share her favorite Christmas story with the class. Mrs. Loper would love to have other favorite Christmas stories shared with the children. Let her know at 674-2671 if you are interested.

Mr. Loper has visited the class to help make more surprise Christmas presents for parents. The class is making patterned wrapping paper using stant, our art teacher, is helping the class to make wreaths of holly which the children will be taking home to add to their decorations.

The second-graders have been having some very special guests for their Resple of the week. Crystal Russell in- Withdrawal vited her grandmother to come in and tell the class about her work at the Mecon Company. Mrs. Poland brought in two very tiny components to show the class, and she explained the impor-tance of these tiny pieces of equipment. Lauren Dembski's mom visited, and with the children, made button pins for everyone. This week's special derson is Shawn Boutilier.

The third-graders are practicing their Christmas play, Bob Bear, which will be presented on Wednesday afterngon, Dec. 19, at 2. In reading they are laving fun while practicing reading skills. They are taking big words and looking for little words within. This is also helping them practice their

The fourth-graders are writing stories about events from their own point of view, in the first person. In science they are making electromagnets. They are practicing the letters E and F in cursive writing.

The fifth-graders are learning "Oh Christmas Tree" in French, studying all Christmas words for spelling, and making decorations for the room. We are trying to get book reports, projects and a science unit wrapped up before Christmas. Mr. Grigsby, our home school counselor, has been a guest in our room to help us learn how to Lecognize and deal with stress. Children and teacher are benefitting

TAKE IT ALL OFF—Telstar students were on their feet cheering and clapping last Friday, as English teacher Heather Carson saw the last of her blonde curls fall to the gymnasium floor—as fellow victims Levi Brown and Tim Kavanagh less-than-eagerly awaited their own trimming. The three teachers had agreed to have their hair cut off if $500 was contributed to the Outward Bound winter camping trip, at a benefit auction held the previous week. But their challenge raised nearly three-times that amount, and on Friday, in front of the entire student body, the teachers made good on their promise. Holly Roberts, Telstar 1988, now a stylist for Hair and Company in Norway, performed the ritual sheering. THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with Christ) became flesh . . " or Christ the help of pastors of surrounding church- clothed himself in a human body. Fures, brings you these meditations. Not bas- ther, on in this same chapter in verse ed on any set theme, they will be individual 18 we read, "no man hath seen God at for each paster. It is hoped you will find in any time; the only begotten Son who these words, comfort and help for your dai- is in the bosom of the Father, he hath

It is sad indeed at this special time of the year we call "Christmas" to see sion of an invisible God. That is why such a marked diversity between the he said on in the same Gospel to his secular and the sacred, in the manner which this, one of the greatest days of the Christian Church is celebrated. I am not suggesting there is deliberate ulterior motive by the secular world to compete with the church, but nevermanuel which is God with us." theless it is quite obvious that the secular by far overshadows the sacred until the real meaning of the day is lost. Maybe because of the natural make up of the human heart such is inevitable. But it does bother me as I try, and encourage others to try, to "keep Christ in Christmas."

This is especially true as we note that many of the traditional celebrations of the secular world find their roots in paganism. Very little is said or done to advance the true meaning of this very special day. As a matter of fact it is considered illegal to have the manger scene displayed in some public places in our country.

Nevertheless the real meaning of Christmas must or should center around the one whose very name is included in the name of the day, namely "Christ." I would like to suggest that he is the most unique person of all human history for the following three ever lived who could say this. Now reasons: He was the only person who either he was God incarnate in human lived before he was born; the only one flesh as he claimed or he was a lunatic that could say, "I and the Father are or a liar, thus not a "good man" as all one" (John 10:30); and the only person who ever lived without a human

The very opening verse of the Gospel of John, John 1:1, says: "In the beginning was the Word, the Word was with God and the Word was God." The Greek word for the term "Word" is "Logos" which means "the expression of a thought or concept."

Thus, in a sense Christmas is not the birthday of Jesus, for in reality he never had a beginning, "He was in the beginning with God." He lived before he was born physically. In other words the Bible abounds with teaching that Christ was none other but God

Further on in the same first chapter of John, verse 14 says "The Word (or

"He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," and why the Angel announced to Josephine a dream (Matt the Christ Child was unique in that he was born without a human father, born of a virgin. This was a fulfillment of the ancient prophecy of Isaiah the Prophet. "Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold a virgin shall concieve and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel" (Isaiah 7:14). In other words the virgin birth was the one supernatural sign that confirmed his true identity that he was the Christ, the Messiah. If the term as it has been, it fully invalidates the supernatural sign that designated him
